FROM AFAR. TRAVELLING MATERIALS AND OBJECTS

Through materials and objects, this exhibition describes exchanges between distant worlds – exchanges often far more ancient than the explorations of the 16th century. From deepest antiquity, carnelian, lapis lazuli, ebony and ivory circulated along trade routes...

Home and studio ✕

Located in a residential district in Helsinki, the modernist style, free façade still stands out amongst the surrounding post-war buildings. Clad in white rendered brick and dark stained timber, the exterior composition has an abstract quality, representing formal innovation of the Modern Movement.

Alvar Aalto (1898–1976) bought the site with his first wife Aino Aalto (1894–1949) in 1935, when the area was becoming part of the wider urban development of the Finnish
